

ESAME CLOVIS

Change Communications is an organization aimed at changing lives of internally displaced persons both physically and psychologically with it's motor as " *UBUNTU, Our Way* "

Change Communications so far has impacted much on us participants especially me in particular starting with the seminar held in Njombe early this year where I learned how rumours are spread as well as how to stop the spreading of false rumors.

I also learned how hate speech is spread and how to help limit it's spread in our communities and on the social media amongst others. The day ended up with refreshment and sharing of food items to participants.

Following the creation of WhatsApp group, change Communications has taken another level as the group has been so interactive with many activities which I have participated in almost all like music where I was able to show case my musical talent as well as carried out creative write ups.

I won't forget to mention the fact that the organization has been so motivating thanks to it's powerful leadership as I've been able to benefit from monthly data as well as other bonuses offered.

With all this achievements within a short while, I'll like to say, in a few years to come, change Communications will touch many lives above it's intended objectives.
